THE NEW CEO OF A 'SLIMMED-DOWN' GOOGLE

TRENDING IN #### CELEBRATIONS

Singapore is holding nationwide events to mark 50 years since it became an independent state.

Singapore became independent when it was ejected from the Federation of Malaya amid social unrest.

In 50 years, the former British colony has transformed itself into one of the world's wealthiest countries.

BANNED

Italian match-fixing pair Potito Starace and Daniele Bracciali have been banned for life by the Italian Tennis Federation. The pair are accused of corruption having fixed matches for financial gain. Investigators say they have text message and 'chat' exchanges that point to possible match-fixing.

SPACE

Physicists have unveiled a raft of new findings about neutrinos bombarding the Earth from above, below - and within. An experiment built in a vast slab of Antarctic ice has doubled its count of "cosmic neutrinos" from outer space, by searching for arrivals passing through the planet from the north.

One of tech's biggest names, Google, is reorganizing under a new moniker - "Alphabet" - in a move underscoring its founders' ambitions to pursue ventures far beyond the company's Internet search core, from self-driving cars to cutting-edge medical research. It will still use the Google name for its popular Internet search engine, mapping service and related products. But CEO and co-founder Larry Page said that the creation of the new holding company called Alphabet will provide more independence for divisions like Nest, which makes Internet-connected home appliances, and Calico, which is researching ways to prolong human life.

India-born Sundar Pichai has been named CEO of Google as part of a surprise corporate overhaul that saw the search giant forming a new parent company called Alphabet Inc. Pichai, 43, the current company vice-president, has worked on some of the company's best-known products, from the Chrome browser to the Android mobile software. He holds an MS from Stanford University in Material Sciences and Engineering and an MBA from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, where he was named a Siebel Scholar and a Palmer Scholar. In addition to being well liked, Pichai has been previously described as the "most powerful man in mobile" and the "man behind Google's most important products".

NORTH KOREA CREATES NEW TIME ZONE

North Korea is to switch to a new time zone to mark its liberation from the Japanese at the end of World War Two, says state media. North Korea is currently in the same time zone as South Korea and Japan, which are nine hours ahead of GMT. But Pyongyang Time will see the clocks put back by 30 minutes on 15 August. The entire Korean peninsula - then one country - was 8.5 hours ahead of GMT until Japan colonised it in 1910.

IS THIS THE NEW WINTER OLYMPICS SONG?

An official song of the Winter Olympics has got a chilly reception online. Beijing won its bid to host the 2022 Winter Olympics last week, but now it's involved in a controversy of Disney princess-sized proportions. "The Snow and Ice Dance," one of 10 official theme songs for the games unveiled earlier this year, sounds a lot like the song "Let It Go," the hit song from Disney's 2013 animated musical Frozen.

INDIA SECOND IN APSALAR'S CLICK FRAUD INDEX

Even as India is on its way to becoming an app-first economy, it has been ranked second in a click-fraud index by Apsalar, a global platform for mobile data management. The index measures and compares the number of clicks while downloading an app across various countries. According to the Apsalar Fraud Index, for every click that results in an installation, there are 2.57 fraudulent or unexplained clicks. While India has a score of 282, Hong Kong tops the index of highest clicks per download at 318. At 29, Germany has the lowest score.

NEW ZEALAND'S NEW FLAG

An independent panel in charge of choosing a new flag for New Zealand has released the longlist of 40 designs to the public. Nearly 10,300 were submitted to a government website for consideration before being whittled down by the 16 members of the independent members of the panel. The panel will now select a shortlist of four to be put to a public vote in a referendum at the end of the year.

EGYPT LAUNCHES SUEZ CANAL EXPANSION

Egypt has opened a major expansion of the Suez Canal, which deepens the main waterway and provides ships with a 35km channel parallel to it. The expansion aims to increase the traffic handled by the canal. The expansion will allow for two-way traffic along part of the route, as well as for larger vessels overall. Takings from Suez could also be hit by an expansion of the Panama Canal, due to be completed next year, which will compete for traffic along the Asia-North America route.

GLOBAL SATELLITE TO BE NAMED AFTER ABDUL KALAM

A global satellite for earth observation and disaster risk reduction — GlobalSat for DRR — proposed under the UN framework is to be dedicated to A.P.J. Abdul Kalam as a tribute to the vision of the celebrated rocket scientist and former Indian president who died July 27. The UN-led GlobalSat will provide a common platform that will allow sharing of space and data segments, with an ability to serve individual nation's disaster management and development needs. The renaming will inspire the next generation of scientists, engineers and space explorers to foster innovation and entrepreneurship and pooling of resources to find low-cost solutions to major problems facing mankind.

THE FLIP PHONE IS COMING BACK!

LG has launched a new model with a handful of modern feature - and says it will launch in the US and UK soon.

Called the LG Wine Smart, the handset has a 3.2-inch colour touch screen and runs Android Lollipop 5.1, as well as enabling 4G calls. With a circular navigation button in the centre of the physical keypad, the handset bears a striking resemblance to the more basic handsets many of us cherished over a decade ago, such as the Motorola Razr. The flip phone is powered by a modern, powerful 1.1GHz quad-core Snapdragon 2010 processor and has 1GB of RAM. There is 4GB of internal storage and this can be upgraded with a microSD slot.

LEAFY GREENS GROWN ON SPACE STATION

NASA astronauts aboard the International Space Station (ISS) are ready to sample fresh veggies grown in space microgravity. NASA's plant experiment, called Veg-01, is being used to study the in-orbit function and performance of the plant growth facility and its rooting "pillows," which contain the seeds. According to Dr Ray Wheeler, lead for Advanced Life Support activities in the Exploration Research and Technology Programs Office at Kennedy, using LED lights to grow plants was an idea that originated with NASA as far back as the late 1990s.

THE WORLD'S FIRST VENOMOUS FROGS DISCOVERED

Scientists have discovered the world's first known venomous frogs with spikes on their heads in Brazil. The two species of frog discovered in the wilds of Brazil have been found to be capable of injecting poison into predators using horns on their head. According to the study that describes the species, these frogs have well-developed delivery mechanisms, utilizing bony spines on the skull that pierce the skin in areas with concentrations of glands.

BIGGEST ROCKET PARTS FOR MARS MISSION

A giant robot at the NASA facility is helping engineers build the biggest, lightweight composite rocket parts so far made for future space vehicles to deeper missions including Mars. Mounted on a 40-foot-long track at the composites technology centre of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama, the robot's head has 16 spools of composite fibre tape that it releases in precise patterns to make both small and large objects.

JIBO, THE FAMILY ROBOT

Jibo comes with a black glass "face" that lights up with a circular icon that is an eye and a mouth, and is ridiculously cute. The body has sensors that are able to pick up your touch and it reacts accordingly. For example, it displays a large heart on the screen when you caress it lovingly. It is called a family robot because it can remember the face of every person in the house and provide information that is meant only for them. It can also read out stories to children, complete with swivelling movements. Its various algorithms help it to learn and adapt to the needs of various members of the family. And it is downright adorable.

WEB'S RANDOM NUMBERS ARE TOO WEAK

The data scrambling systems used by millions of web servers could be much weaker than they ought to be, say researchers. A study has found shortcomings in the generation of the random numbers used to scramble or encrypt data. The hard-to-guess numbers are vital to many security measures that prevent data theft. But the sources of data that some computers call on to generate these numbers often run dry. This, they warned, could mean random numbers are more susceptible to well-known attacks that leave personal data vulnerable.

THE BLUE DREAM WILL FINALLY FLY!

An engineering labour of love to bring Bugatti's 'Veyron of the skies' to life is reaching the end of its journey.

The beautiful replica 100P aircraft, dubbed Reve Bleu or the 'Blue Dream', is expected to make its maiden flight 'a few weeks from now'.

The plane is based on a design which had to be concealed from the Nazis during World War II and that would have made it the most advanced aircraft of the conflict. Italian car designer Ettore Bugatti believed the plane would reach 805km/h, beating the German Messerschmitt top speed of 755km/h in 1939.

BOOK REVIEW

THE GREAT HUNT

by Wendy Higgins

A strange beast stirs fear in the kingdom of Lochlanach, terrorizing towns with its brutality and hunger. In an act of desperation, a proclamation is sent to all of Eurona—kill the creature and win the ultimate prize: the daughter of King Lochson's hand in marriage. Princess Aerity understands her duty to the kingdom though it pains her to imagine marrying a stranger. It would be foolish to set her sights on any particular man in the great hunt, but when a brooding local hunter, Paxton Seabolt, catches her attention, there's no denying the unspoken lure between them...or his mysterious resentment.

MICHAEL CLARKE ANNOUNCES HIS RETIREMENT

Michael Clarke

Australia captain Michael Clarke has announced his retirement from international cricket after his side suffered a humiliating innings defeat at the hands of a young English side in the fourth Test of the ongoing Ashes series. The fifth and final Ashes Test at the Oval will be his final match, starting on August 20. Clarke, plagued by a longstanding back problem and more recent hamstring trouble, is in a desperate run of form with the bat, having reached 25 just six times in his last 30 Test innings. And he has become the first Australian in more than a century to lose four successive Ashes series in England. Steven Smith is likely to become Australia's captain for their next Test series in Bangladesh.

*Clarke has made 28 Test centuries, one short of Australia batting great Donald Bradman's tally, in his 114-match career.

*Clarke averages just 16.71 in eight innings this Ashes, with a top score of 38 and, as a consequence, his career Test average has dropped below 50 -- widely considered to be the mark of an all-time great.

*He retired from one-day international cricket after leading Australia to World Cup glory on home soil earlier this year.

PHELPS DOMINATES US 200M MEDLEY

Phelps has won the 200m individual medley at the US swimming championships in a sizzling 1min 54.75sec. Phelps nabbed his third world-leading time of 2015 in as many days, after dominant wins in the 100m and 200m butterfly. Phelps lost his world championships berth as part of the sanctions for his drunk-driving arrest last September. With the US nationals running opposite the worlds serving basically as a consolation meet, Phelps has made sure he's on the radar of the world's elite swimming in Russia.
